Alan Stauffer

Alan is an avid photographer. His favorite subjects are sunrises and sunsets, Western landscapes and "character" portraits.

Alan is the owner and operator of Alan's Photo in Afton, Wy.

The store is a camera and accessory store that includes digital processing, large format printing, and custom framing. He also teaches photography and Photoshop for Western Wyoming Community College.

The store is affiliated with PRO (Photographic Research Organization) and a member of IPI (Independent Photo Imagers). Alan's favorite camera company is Canon but he also carries Lumix by Panasonic and Olympus. His processing systems are Noritsu and HP. Visit his web site at alansphotostore.com.

In his "spare time" he serves as the Mayor of Afton, Wyoming.

Alan's Workshop:

Getting in Your Face a presentation about getting up real close for character portraits followed by a workshop 6 Quick and Easy Photoshop Fix-Ups.

Ann Torrence

Ann's transition from a vacation traveler with a camera to a photographer on the road for thousands of miles a year began when she was recovering from a serious illness. She had plenty of time to think about what was important to her and she decided to pursue her own photographic vision.

Ann's favorite images record snippets of conversations – between her and another person, the sunrise greeting the landscape, or a mountain goat assessing the danger of her camera. Ann's approach is to be an informed participant, initiating the interchange but letting the conversation unfold naturally.

Ann blogs about her photographic adventures at www.anntorrence.com. Her book, "US. Highway 89: the Character of the American West," available soon, documents the people and places along the greatest road trip in the country.

Ann's Workshop:

Working in Projects Ann will review how to work in photographic projects and how that makes for better photos than trying to get a best-of portfolio.

Roger Boe MD

Photography has been an incredible hobby for Roger for over 20 years. At times it is a consuming passion, one that fits the many opportunities that he has for travel and has given him a chance to explore the beauty of Idaho and the West. Roger currently has exhibits at several local galleries and has a number of photographs on display at the Craters of the Moon Visitor Center. Recently he's become more interested and involved in capturing the drama and complexity of the exotic places he's met on the way. Roger is a Pediatrician who practiced in Pocatello for many years, retiring in 1999 to become a full-time medical mission volunteer.

Roger's Workshop:

People and Places:

The Joy of Travel Photography. Roger will discuss some basic principles of travel photography, gear, and approaching people. The workshop will also include a discussion of your travel images. (If you want to participate, bring 3 images, on CD, 3-5 megabyte please.)
